CONTEMPORARY JAZZ ALBUM RELEASE: "A FEW DIFFERENT THINGS"

With his new release "A few Different Things," Seattle guitarist Michael Cosgrove is up to, well, a few different jazzy things.

Half the tracks originals, it opens with the smooth-jazz "Partly Cloudy", followed by the Flamenco-flavored "Force of Nature" and a funky Bossa Nova, "Grey, Green and Blue." Another thing it's got is groove-oriented renditions of some older jazz chestnuts, including "Stolen Moments" and "Blue in Green." Then there's Orleans' "Dance With Me" -- With just guitars and Bass, is this Hot Club of Brazil? And "Stairway to Heaven?" ...Guitars and flutes, and Hans Teuber rocks out on tenor. Hans adds his sax on a couple of other things as well.

And there are a few other things -- including acoustic guitar-based fusion. Topped off with a solo miniature rendition of "Danny Boy." Maybe there isn't something for everyone, but with twelve tracks of hot and cool, there's more than enough.
